

New Social Networking Site Launched for Women Only

An all-women social networking Web site is now available at Girlfriendscafe.com. The site is a great free-of-charge online community, where women of all ages and walks of life in the United States and Canada can meet, talk, laugh and come together.

Daytona Beach, Florida (PRWeb) February 26, 2007 -- A new social networking Web site has launched at Girlfriendscafe.com. Geared toward women in the United States and Canada, the online community provides a safe haven for women to communicate to one another and have fun.

The social networking site is free to all members. Women can choose from the exciting menu to create their own personal online profile; talk in chat rooms; post on a message board; create their own and view other member blogs; and be instantly connected to their girlfriends through instant chat. Girlfriendscafe has also set up a post office for its members to send and receive e-mail.

The online community was the brainstorm of two long time friends, Linda and Lee. Their motto - Created by girlfriends for Girlfriends, says it all. The social networking site is filled with ways in which to communicate with existing friends, as well as meet new ones in a safe environment where thoughts and ideas can be freely exchanged.

"We just wanted to build an online community for women of all walks of life," says Lee.

"Whether you are a professional, stay-at-home mom, newly divorced or widowed, and whether you are young or older, there is a place for you at Girlfriendscafe.com," adds Linda.

The site creators have been best friends for over 20 years. Their lives have taken them in many different directions over the years. Staying in contact with each other has given them consistency. Men have come and gone, but these girlfriends are there to stay through thick and thin.

"Only another woman can truly empathize and understand when you dye your hair and it ends up green instead of the color shown on the box," says Linda. "There is a language that women speak. We understand each other."

Providing a woman-to-woman social networking outlet is also a plus for men without them even knowing it. It has been noted that women use about 20,000 words per day while a man utters about 7,000. Girlfriendscafe is a place to use up the excess.

As the online community's founders have learned "diamonds are nice... but the best things in life a woman can have are Girlfriends!
